Bringing Life to Snow

Adorned with a corncob pipe and a button nose, this frosty friend warmed the soul as a symbol of our youth. Some snowman trivia:

Did you know...?

- It was the Dark Ages, not the Ice Age, when the first snowman was built, according to Bob Eckstein's book "The History of the Snowman."
- The world's tallest snowman was just over 122 feet tall. It was constructed in Bethel, Maine, in March 2008. It didn't completely melt for four months.
- Gene Autry's rendition of "Frosty the Snowman" hit the airwaves in 1950. In the song, Frosty was a "jolly, happy soul."
- Michael Keaton awakens as a snowman after dying in an auto accident in the 1998 film "Jack Frost."
- The Abominable Snowman is a creature said by some to roam mountainous regions of Nepal and Tibet.

COMING SOON!

We are pleased to announce that Fox Rehabilitation will have a home here. We are working together to set up a beautiful, full service suite, where Fox will be able to offer Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy and Speech Therapy to our residents. Having this service available in our building adds to the long list of amenities that we bring to our community.

Fox Rehabilitation's mission is to give their therapists the autonomy to provide the finest quality rehabilitation, with compassion and respect, to the geriatric population. Their goal is to have our residents reach optimal function.

Look for their bright orange sign, and the expertise it represents.

Come see the beautiful ice skating pond on our second floor landing.
